57. Sustainable procurement

Knysna Municipality is committed to reducing our carbon footprint.

Sustainable procurement (or Green procurement) is a spending and investment process typically associated with public policy, although it is equally applicable to the private sector.

Organizations practicing sustainable procurement meet their needs for goods, services, utilities and works not on a private cost-benefit analysis, but with a view to maximizing net benefits for themselves and the wider world.

In doing so they must incorporate extrinsic cost considerations into decisions alongside the conventional procurement criteria of price and quality, although in practice the sustainable impacts of a potential supplier's approach are often assessed as a form of quality consideration. These considerations are typically divided thus: environmental, economic and social (also known as the "triple bottom line").

Sustainable procurement involves a higher degree of collaboration and engagement between all parties in a supply chain. Many businesses have adopted a broad interpretation of sustainable procurement and have developed tools and techniques to support this engagement and collaboration.

Sustainable procurement broadens this framework to take account of third-party consequences of procurement decisions, forming a "triple baseline" of external concerns, which the procuring organization must fulfil.

Environmental

Environmental concerns are the dominant macro-level justification for sustainable procurement; born out of the growing 21st century consensus that humanity is placing excessive demands on available resources through unsustainable but well-established consumption patterns. These will involve non-human factors.

This is a sufficiently influential issue that environment-centric procurement (green procurement) is sometimes seen to stand alone from sustainable procurement. The most straightforward justification for green procurement is as a tool with which to address climate change, but it offers the broader capacity to mitigate over-exploitation of all scarce resources.

Examples of green procurement range from the purchase of energy-saving light bulbs to the commissioning of a new building from renewably sourced timber via organic food being served in a workplace canteen. The ultimate green procurement is the avoidance of the purchase altogether.

In support of Sustainable Development, the organization should develop and publish a 'Sustainable Development Procurement Guidelines and Procedures'. When it comes to purchasing products or services, referral to these guidelines would help make the organization become a leader in environmentally responsible purchasing.

Social

Sustainable procurement is also used to address issues of social policy, such as inclusiveness, equality, international labor standards and diversity targets, regeneration and integration.

Examples include addressing the needs – whether employment, care, welfare or other – of groups including ethnic minorities, children, the elderly, those with disabilities, adults lacking basic skills, and immigrant populations.

Economic

On a macroeconomic level, it can be argued that there are economic benefits in the form of efficiency gains from incorporating whole-life costing into decision-making. [Note: in contrast to most arguments from sustainable procurement proponents, these can be purely private benefits accrued by the procuring organization.]

In addition, the creation of sustainable markets is essential for long-term growth while sustainable development requirements foster innovation. There are also potential global applications: sustainable procurement can favour fair trade or ethical practice, and allow extra investment to channel towards developing countries.

On a microeconomic level, sustainable procurement offers the chance for economic redistribution. Targets might include creation of jobs and wealth in regeneration areas, or assistance for small and/or ethnic minority-owned businesses.

58. Emergency/disaster procurement process

The following process will be applicable to disasters to speed up recovery from the event or to enable services and goods to be delivered during the event.

Step	Process Step	Rationale	Responsible Person
1.	Is it a real need?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A reason as to why it is required must be given. An indication must be given regarding what value the product or service would add to the mandate of the municipality as a whole. 	Requestor use the product or service?	share in the contract where that product or service is required.

	Is it linked to the budget?	Where there are ad-hoc requirements that fall with the advent of a particular event and thus the requirement could either, not be foreseen, planned or anticipated. This must be clearly documented. Where relevant, minutes of meetings / forums / cabinet decisions / e-mails, where such a requirement originated must be kept on file together with the identified requirement as it speaks directly to the identification of the need.	Requestor
	Is it an ad-hoc requirement and how did it come to be the responsibility of the municipality?	Where it is linked to a strategy of the KFDRE, or relates to a particular policy decision, excerpts thereof must be attached in support of statements in motivation.	Requestor
	Does it have priority and why?	As far as it pertains to the priority of the project / service / product a clear motivation must be given, as it sets out the factors that determine the weight of the service / product required. This might include but is not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Political will ➤ Legislative requirements / mandates ➤ Policy interventions ➤ National / Provincial programs or directives, etc. 	Requestor

	Is there a scarcity of the specific commodity in the market / Country / Province?	Consideration that is general but also very important relates to issues such as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Where a service or product is not readily available, it becomes harder to motivate the limitation of providers. • Strategic nature of commodity / service / product. • The more strategic, the subtler and thorough the approach. Even more important here is the identification and mitigation of risks. 	Requestor
	Is there a time implication that necessitates urgent action?	The less time available for acquiring particular goods or services, the options in terms of procurement solutions are limited. Time or the limitation thereof also has a major impact on cost. Thus, one cannot expect a full spectrum of goods and services within a short period of time at the lowest possible cost. Trade-offs is a very real and quite important factor to consider in procurement.	Requestor
	Is there funding for this requirement and is the impact of this requirement known and accepted?	The less funding available, the more pressure is placed on following a limited, negotiated procurement process. Where there is an existing strain on the funding, it defeats the purpose to spend the bigger part of that on the procurement option rather than the service / product required.	Requestor
	Analysed the market to determine all possible option to satisfy the demand.	Understanding the market is key to ensure that the best procurement option is selected. It serves no purpose to select an open bidding process in a market that by virtue of the nature of the product / service required	Requestor is inherently limited. This, in the true sense of the word, is fruitless and wasteful.

	Does the geographic location of potential Service Providers have an impact on the selection process (i.e. Sole Supplier – Country)	The place where the service / product is needed at times is a factor that leads to the decision to limit service providers. A practical example here is isolated and / rural areas, or areas where there are no locally based services providers / products etc. In other words, where the commodity required is not locally available.	Requestor
	Is there any specific economic circumstances that indicate the utilisation of limited bids	The economic climate plays a huge role as it relates to the availability of a particular service or product, the cost associated with it in a climate where the service is readily available (overprovided) as opposed to when it is scarce (over demand and under provision). Where it is thus possible to forecast a particular pattern as it relates to a specific commodity, this should be catered for as it ultimately impacts on procurement solutions available. Socio-Economic Objectives <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • For as much as cost is a heavy consideration, government is burdened with a socio-economic obligation to use procurement as a tool for economic empowerment of the historically marginalized. • To this end, who government buys from, at what cost and to what end is most certainly influenced by the legislative framework and the social 	Requestor
